XO/Commerce QXP Meets Demand for Mid-Tier Application

(Birmingham, Alabama, U.S.A., May 7, 2002) — Genesis Expert Systems, Inc.

announced today the release of XO/Commerce QXP, a mid-level version of the revolutionary XO/Commerce Supply Chain Management software solution.

XO/Commerce QXP is optimized to run a single distribution center with up to 20,000 SKUs while providing the same robust features and functions as the premier design which targets large corporations with unlimited distribution centers.

XO/Commerce QXP delivers a rich set of distribution operating standards including barcode and RF-enabled Warehouse Operations, touch screen and RF-enabled Order Confirmation, Integrated EDI, Inventory Management with optimized Demand Replenishment, Contract Administration, Customer Relationship Management (CRM) with Telemarketing/Contract Management and Sales Management. In addition, XO/Commerce QXP includes fully integrated Accounts Receivable, Accounts Payable and General Ledger functionality.

XO/Commerce QXP integrates IBM® iSeries AS/400 and Windows® PC. Use of simple Windows® menus and screens along with the high availability and processing power of the AS/400 platform combine to perform major management functions resulting in a reduction in inventory and redundancies and an increase in turns. The foundation of XO/Commerce QXP is a high-technology software design and architecture called Er/a (Entity Relationship and Attribute), a derivative of Expert Systems and Artificial Intelligence. Er/a transforms business concepts and ideas into computer language with the speed of today's business.
